

Build Line A

(An Editorial)

THE DAILY Record reaffirms its support of the line proposed by the State Highway Department as the best possible route for the limited-access Stroudsburg Thruway.

It does so for these reasons:

(1). The route (Line A) has been surveyed by the prominent firm of engineering consultants, Gannett, Fleming, Corddry and Carpenter, and recommended over all other lines studied by the state. No other firm of competent engineers has come up with a plan anywhere approaching its equal.

(2). The recommended route is based on four plans — not just one — in a comprehensive study that has cost the taxpayers of Pennsylvania approximately $250,000.

(3). The proposed line was not intended to be a by-pass of the boroughs, but as a Thruway which would best serve both boroughs as well as inter-borough and through traffic on U.S. Routes 611 and 209 and the many secondary routes.

(4). Present traffic conditions have had a strangulating impact on the economy of the high-value shopping areas of the two communities — on which the bulk of the business economy of Monroe County rests. Delays, one way or another, in getting the project under construction have already affected local business.

And let's not kid ourselves into believing that the economy of the area is the best. Further delays will affect the economy of our shopping areas to a point where property values, income to business and payrolls will be seriously hurt, and the economy of Stroudsburg, East Stroudsburg and Delaware Water Gap will suffer accordingly.

Thruways have proved both practical and beneficial in many, many places including Sharon, Pa., in New England and along the New York State Thruway. We are confident the $10,000,000 cost of the Stroudsburg Thruway will be returned more than a hundred-fold in the future.

This is no time for selfish opposition to a sound engineering project. Rather, it is a time for all citizens of the county to unite behind the plan recommended by the State Highway Department and endorsed in a separate study by an independent firm of consulting engineers.

The Daily Record, like hundreds of people who will not be in attendance at today's Thruway hearing, relies on the wide experience and fine reputation of these engineers in supporting Line A as the most practical route.

Bear Creek In Federal Request

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (AP)—President Eisenhower asked Congress today for 10 million dollars to continue work on deepening the Delaware River channel between Philadelphia and Trenton, N.J., to 40 feet.

This requested appropriation was almost half of the $21,385,000 sought for Keystone State flood control and navigation projects in the proposed record 74-billion-dollar budget for the fiscal year starting next July 1.

Other requests included $300,000 for alteration of two buildings at the Lebanon, Pa., Veterans Administration Hospital to provide dining facilities and $232,500 to finance road surfacing, a parking area, walks and a bridge at Gettysburg National Park.

Besides the Delaware River deepening, there were other requested appropriations for flood control and navigation:

1. One million dollars to start construction of the 101-million-dollar Kinzua control dam. But whether construction actually begins depends both on Congress and the federal courts.

The Seneca Indians, who live in New York State directly across the line from the proposed dam, have managed so far to delay the reservoir on grounds it would flood their reservation. The land on which the Senecas live was granted them by a 1794 treaty, and they say they want to stay put.

2. $1,400,000 for construction of Dam 8 on the Monongahela River. Congress voted a million dollars for this project last year but no work was begun.

Allentown

3. $700,000 for continuation of levee work at Allentown.

4. $2,200,000 for continuing flood control work at Bradford.

5. $545,000 for continuing a survey of water resources of the Delaware River.

6. $1,740,000 for the long-range Bear Creek flood control project on the upper Lehigh River near White Haven. This is expected to cost about 15 million dollars when finally completed.

7. $1,400,000 to continue the Dyberry Reservoir near Honesdale.

8. $1,100,000 for the Prompton Reservoir, not far from the Dyberry facility.

9. $1,300,000 for the Stillwater Reservoir near Forest City.

The Army Engineers, for planning purposes, asked through the President for $275,000 for the Maxwell Lock and Dam on the Monongahela River and $175,000 for the Curwensville Reservoir.

Object Of Wide Search

Body Found In Lower Mt. Bethel

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 13 (AP)—A young policeman was found shot to death in his automobile near Easton today, five hours after the stabbed and mutilated body of his wife had been discovered in their Philadelphia home.

The body was found in Lower Mount Bethel Township.

Police said Richard P. Setzer, 28, took his life with his service pistol after killing his attractive, red-haired wife, an expectant mother.

Seeking Help

Setzer apparently shot himself while a farmer was running for help after spotting the policeman's parked car in a wooded area not far from Riverton, police said.

Fred Miller, a farmer, said he noticed the car parked in an isolated spot and, having heard a broadcast description of the automobile, ran to the Belvidere, N.J.-Riverton Bridge over the Delaware River, where he told N.J. police.

Miller said that as he ran from the area where he had seen the car, he heard a shot—possibly that which ended Setzer's life.

The New Jersey authorities notified Pennsylvania State Police and they sped to the scene. Setzer's body was on the front seat of his 1950 cream and black sedan. On the seat beside him was his .38 caliber police pistol, one shot fired from it.

Believed Armed

That ended an intense and widespread search with Philadelphia police warning peace officers the man they sought was believed armed and mentally deranged.

The blanket-covered body of Mrs. Theresa Setzer, 31, was found on the living room floor at 9 a.m. when two of her husband's fellow policemen were sent to the Setzer home when he failed to report for duty today.

In the kitchen were five notes which indicated, detectives said, that Setzer had killed his wife as the climax of domestic troubles and that he intended to take his own life.

When they rang the front door bell, the two policemen received answering shouts from the second floor. Two sons, Kenneth, four, and Richard, six, called down that they had been locked in their bedroom and were unable to come to the door.

The two boys were taken to the home of a relative.

Foreign Aid Proposal Near $4 Billion

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (AP)—

President Eisenhower today proposed a new $3,940,000,000 foreign aid program designed to reinforce the free world against a Soviet triple-threat of "open armed attack, internal subversion and economic domination."

The total is a billion dollars more than Congress voted for foreign aid last year, and $6 million more than Eisenhower asked then.

Under Eisenhower's new request for the fiscal year starting July 1, 50 or more nations would receive military, economic and technical aid. This will be the 12th straight year of the U.S. foreign aid program.

Eisenhower served notice in his budget message that he plans to seek soon a special fund of 200 million dollars to start arming America's European allies with 1,500-mile-range missiles. The first such intermediate-range rockets, designed to carry nuclear warheads, are due to be sent to Britain around the end of the year.

Free World Forces

"The composition of free world forces and the equipment with which they are provided," the President told Congress, "must be designed for the needs of an era of increasingly destructive weapons with far-reaching range."

But Eisenhower declared it is also "critically necessary" to provide economic grants and loans to many lands because the Soviets exploit poverty, ignorance and despair in their drive for domination.

"Conquest by this route," he asserted, "is no less menacing to us and other free nations than conquest by military force."

The President's request for new aid money includes $1,800,000,000 for military assistance in the form of guns, missiles and other equipment plus $65 million dollars for support of the economies of nations like which Korea carry a military burden beyond their own economic capacity. This adds up to a total of $2,655,000,000 for direct or indirect military aid for commitment in the next fiscal year.

For overseas economic aid and financing Eisenhower asked $1,275,000,000. This includes $25 million dollars for the development loan fund established last year to finance long-range projects abroad, 164 million dollars for technical cooperation in such fields as the improvement of agriculture and public health and 186 million dollars for a variety of other types of assistance.

The grand total of almost four billion dollars is $6 million dollars more than Eisenhower requested for foreign aid a year ago.

The funds which actually will be spent on foreign aid in the next fiscal year will come not only from new appropriations but also, perhaps mostly, from appropriations already granted by Congress.

The President put the year at $3,868,000,000—an increase of 119 millions dollars over the estimate for the current year ending June 30.

In connection with the operations still planned for the current year, Eisenhower said that to fulfill anticipated needs growing out of agreements at the December Atlantic Alliance meeting in Paris "an additional amount of up to 200 million dollars for procurement of more missiles and other new equipment is covered by the allowance for proposed legislation and contingencies for the fiscal year 1958."

The cabinet change apparently meant Perez Jimenez had surmounted another crisis—his third since an abortive New Year's revolt by units of the air force and army.

But Venezuela's troubles appeared far from settled. The capital was heavily guarded by troops and police. Tension was high. Leaflets scattered throughout the city called for demonstrations against the government.

There also was distributed a manifesto calling for a restoration of political principles.

CARACAS, Venezuela, Jan. 13 (AP)—President Marcos Perez Jimenez today fired his newly appointed defense minister and took over that key post himself to ride out a recurring crisis.

The ousted minister, Gen. Romulo Fernandez, was reported to have been plotting to overthrow the Perez Jimenez regime. Fernandez was named defense minister only last Friday.

The national radio said he had gone abroad on what it described as an official mission. It did not say where.

Stroudsburg Water Filtration Plant May Be In Use By 1959

R. C. Hughes Chairman Of Authority

RUSSELL C. Hughes was reelected chairman of the Stroudsburg Municipal Authority during its reorganizational meeting last night.

Henry Tucker, named by Borough Council last week to a new five-year term, was elected vice chairman. He succeeds the late Randall J. Marsh. Also elected were Jack Kerlin, secretary, and Frank Stackhouse, treasurer.

Reappointed to their posts were Harold E. Snyder, assistant secretary; George T. Robinson, solicitor; Edward C. Hess, engineer, and Albright and Friel, consulting engineers.

The authority approved an increase in 1958's hourly rate from $3.50 to $3.75 to match rates paid by the boroughs of Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg and agreed to pay Robinson on a regular fee basis for additional work above his $300 retainer for attending meetings and advising the authority.

Other wages and salaries were set at the same schedule as 1957.

Water Pressure

The authority assured Montgomery F. Crowe, president of Monroe County Industries, Inc., that it will assure water pressure for an Ohio manufacturing company expected to move into a lot near the Delaware Lackawanna & Western Railroad in Stroud Township area in the near future.

Robinson was directed to prepare a contract between the authority and the industrial group for construction of an extension of an existing six-inch water main, for which Monroe County Industries will pay.

In answer to a question from Crowe, William Curnow, authority manager, said extension of the line could be completed in about 15 working days.

Curnow said the six-inch line should provide the plant with a flow of 1,000 gallons a minute plus 22 pounds of reserve pressure. The company had asked for a 15-pound reserve to operate its sprinkling system.

Crowe was also assured that the authority will be able to provide water for two new industries which plan to locate on the former Robert Christman property in the Tanite Road area.

The authority's consulting engineers will be asked to determine if a formula can be worked out for refunding to Monroe County Industries part of the cost of construction over a period of time.

The cost to the industrial group is expected to be $9,841.55, plus any necessary cleaning of existing pipe lines. Crowe said his group had raised enough funds to take care of most of the cost.

Sarah Churchill Jailed

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 13 (AP)—Sarah Churchill, actress daughter of Britain's Sir Winston Churchill, was jailed for five hours today. Sheriff's deputies accused her of being drunk, of using obscene language on the telephone and attacking a lawman.

Jesse Lasky Dies

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Jan. 13 (AP)—Jesse L. Lasky, 77, one of the founding fathers of the motion picture industry, collapsed and died in the Beverly Hilton Hotel today.

Following the governor's brief dedication, the Pennsylvania state police staged their annual display of horsemanship and dog training before a capacity audience of 8,000 in the show building's main arena.

The commission reported visitors began to pack the more than 13 acres of floor space in the giant building almost as soon as doors opened at 8 a.m.

Pennsylvania farm organizations operating fund booths reported consumption of edibles by hungry visitors exceeded food sales at any previous opening in the show's 42-year history.

Group singing was under the direction of Ernest Farmer, with Mrs. Merlin Rutt as accompanist. Rev. Roger C. Stimson offered the invocation and Rev. Charles Staples the benediction.

Monroe County YMCA Opens Annual Membership Drive With Dinner Conference

MONROE COUNTY YMCA moved out on its annual membership round-up last night at a kickoff meeting attended by about 80 campaign leaders and workers.

The first report meeting, originally announced for Friday night, was changed to next Monday night so it would not conflict with shopping hours.

E. Holt Wyckoff Jr., drive chairman, gave a pep talk to the workers on the benefits that accrue to the individual members and to the community as a whole because of the active program being carried on by the YMCA.

Greater Potential

The potential is much greater than is now being reached, he said, and only through the medium of more people becoming affiliated with the YMCA can the community realize full benefit from the facilities offered by the new building.

The staff is one of the best to be found in any YMCA of this size, Wyckoff said, and the half-million dollar building would do justice in communities much larger than the Stroudsburg and Monroe County.

Alex Bensingner, chairman of the YMCA Board of Directors, welcomed the workers and urged each of the four teams (teams) in the mock train race to "come in with full loads."

John R. Wilson, general secretary, introduced the two speakers.

President's Budget Tops In History For Peacetime

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (AP)—

President Eisenhower presented to Congress today the highest budget in peacetime history—$73,934,000,000 to embark the nation on "the dawn age of space conquest."

Two out of every three dollars in the spending program, for the 1959 fiscal year starting next July 1, are earmarked for national protection in what Eisenhower said is clearly "a time of growing danger."

To meet these dangers flung out from the Kremlin, the President proposes to spend a billion dollars more on the missile program alone—a total of $3,300,000,000.

The precariously balanced budget cuts and skimps on civilian and even some military items to put more money into missiles and nuclear weapons and vehicles, supersonic planes, greater foreign aid and a stepped up "effort on military satellites and other outer space vehicles."

Holding Taxes

It calls for holding taxes where they are now, for tilting up temporarily the 275-billion-dollar lid on the national debt, for a nickel stamp on letters, and for $3,000 fewer men in military uniform.

Pronouncing his budget adequate to meet America's responsibilities, Eisenhower informed Congress in a 22,000-word message:

"Americans have a tradition of uniting in action when their freedoms and welfare are threatened. We do not shirk our clear responsibilities when new challenges arise."

"I feel confident that this budget expresses the way in which the American people will want to respond to the premises and dangers of the dawn age of space conquest. New dimensions must be added to our defenses, and outmoded activities must be discarded. Closer international cooperation is vital in a world where great distances are losing their meaning. As we devote more of our efforts and resources to these compelling tasks, we will have to limit our demands for less essential services and benefits provided by the federal government."

In condensed form, the government's financial position now is this:

In round figures, the Treasury expects to take in $74,400,000,000 and pay out $73,900,000,000 in the next fiscal year. For the current fiscal year, ending next June 30, it now counts on collecting about $72,400,000,000 and spending $72,800,000,000.

So instead of ringing up a third surplus in a row, the administration will wind up this year about 400 million dollars in the red. That's because the threat of Soviet advances with satellites and missiles sparked bigger spending at a time when business and revenues have been slumping.

But Eisenhower told Congress, as he did in last Thursday's State of the Union message, that there are "strong grounds to support my confidence that the expansion of our economy will soon be resumed, bringing higher levels of receipts with present tax rates."

Crystal Ball

Nevertheless, the surplus predicted for the year ahead relies on a three-billion-dollar vision in the crystal ball of federal financial forecasters. They foresee individual income taxes producing an additional $2,300,000,000 next year, and a 700-million-dollar increase in postal rates forthcoming from a Congress that has been reluctant to provide even a smaller boost in the post.

Secretary of the Treasury Anderson characterized the budget as "practical and prudent." He said revenue estimates are based on a belief that personal income will total 343 billion dollars for the 1957 calendar year and go up 9 billions to 352 billions this year. Corporation profits are expected to remain the same in 1958 as in 1957, around 42 billions.

Both Anderson and Budget Director Percival Brundage told newsmen at separate seminars that they share Eisenhower's confidence of a reversal of the present dip in business. They said they look for things to get better by next summer.

Anderson was asked whether he thinks the prospective higher spending means there will be a "hair-curling depression." That was predicted just a year ago unless the spending pace was slowed down.

Anderson said he was not commenting on statements by others, but: "I believe this country has the ability to provide whatever we need in the way of military protection and at the same time remain fiscally sound."

The new budget has an innovation that would give the President discretion to switch around two billion dollars of defense funds, perhaps halting an Army project to make funds available for an Air Force development, or vice versa. Brundage said the requested authority for this never before has been granted in peacetime.

Of next year's total spending of about $73,900,000,000, Eisenhower plans to put $45,900,000,000 into "protection." This represents an increase of $965,000,000 and covers military operations of the Pentagon, the atomic energy program, stockpiling strategic goods, expanding defense production and military aid and defense support for friendly nations.

Domestic Program

The bulk of the defense spending, of course, is by the Department of Defense. The figure has been upped from an already enlarged $38,861,000,000 for this year to $39,779,000,000 next year — a 918 million-dollar-increase. The Atomic Energy Commission has been boosted 250 million to $2,550,000,000.

The President trimmed military foreign aid a bit, to $3,085,000,000. But he more than offset the reduction with an increase in economic assistance. Thus the overall figure for mutual security spending is up $119,000,000 to a total of $3,868,000,000.

Whether Congress will go along with the foreign aid program is a big question. But once again the President put up a heavy argument for it.

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 13 (AP)—The $25,000 engagement ring Jayne Mansfield, native of Pen Argyl, Pa., received from her bridegroom was an eye opener for those who knew Mickey Hargitay as an Indianapolis weight lifter.

Before his wedding at Portuquese Bend, Calif., Hargitay told a reporter he acquired a fortune as a builder of houses and filling stations in Indianapolis.

Board Of Missions

Methodist Church Wins Over Communists

BUCK HILL FALLS — Reports that Methodists in communist countries of Europe and Asia are continuing to work and in some cases to advance were made here yesterday by the Board of Missions of the Methodist Church.

The reports on some countries constituted for American Methodists their first authoritative information on fellow churchmen in almost a decade. The information was given to about 600 persons by two secretaries of the board's Division of World Missions.

Countries covered in the reports were mainland China, Poland, Czechoslovakia, East Germany, Yugoslavia, Hungary and Bulgaria. The only report on North Korea was that there still is no information on Methodist north of the 38th parallel four years after the armistice ending the Korean war was signed.

Reporting on mainland China, the Rev. Tracey K. Jones, executive secretary for Southeast Asia and China, said:

"News from inside China is very sporadic, yet of sufficient quantity to assure us that the Christian church there is continuing its witness to the gospel of Christ. Methodist churches are continuing and in at least some places are increasing in membership."

"Bishop Z. T. Kaung, though past retirement age, continues to be titular and actual leader of the Methodist Church. His former colleague, Bishop W. Y. Chen, while no longer imprisoned, is still under some sort of house arrest and not able to resume church responsibility."

"No report has been received of the holding of annual conference sessions in Hingwa, Yenping, Foochow, Kiangsi, West China, Shantung, or Kalgan. East China, however, held its ninth session in June, 1956. Its previous sessions since the communists came to power were in 1949, 1950 and 1953. It reported increased membership, but did not give figures. There were nine ordinations at the 1956 sessions."

"The Mid-China Annual Conference met in November, 1956, the first session since October, 1950. Eleven persons were ordained deacon or elder. The North China Annual Conference held its 13th session in September, 1956, at which time there were five ordinations."

"The Foochow Annual Conference still has not been held for a session, but separate district conferences have been held, and reports from these indicate that the church is in a fairly healthy state. The executive committee of the Foochow Conference met recently and reported a membership of 21,000 up from 18,000 in 1949."

"News items from individual churches are occasionally received and show that church life is going on. The Changshu Church, East China Conference, baptized 13 persons at Christmas, 1955. One of the smallest country churches in the Mid-China Conference, with neither a resident pastor nor a church building, has baptized six persons and taken in four on probation during the past two years."

"Some of the churches which have experienced difficulties are now gradually getting these straightened out. The Train Church, Shantung Conference, has at last gotten its church property back from the government and has resumed services."

"These scattered items give us real ground for hope that church life is also continuing in the other areas from which no news has been received."

In 1949, the last official report on the Methodist Church in mainland China before the communists assumed control showed a membership of 118,000 in 10 annual conferences.

The reports on the Methodist Church in communist-dominated countries of Europe were given by the Rev. C. Melvin Blake, executive secretary for Europe and Africa. By countries, his report was:

Czechoslovakia—"In Czechoslovakia, there are 19 pastors with about 5,000 members in the Methodist Church. Though it is reported that the church goes on, it is not growing. No new pastors are allowed, nor are new places authorized. Young people are very susceptible to communist propaganda."

Yugoslavia—"One of the greatest problems in Yugoslavia for the Methodist Church is the supply of Christian workers. Before the war, there were 19 fully-ordained ministers in the Methodist Church. Now there are three. During the war, many German pastors returned to Germany, some came to America, and others went to other countries of Europe. At the present time, along with the three full-time ministers, there are six men helpers and eight women helpers."

"One young pastor, telling about his work in a fellowship meeting during the Summer months, said, 'I am a pastor from Macedonia in the southern part of Yugoslavia. I have had three years study in Bible school. I am pastor of two churches with 145 members, but there are about 800 people who attend the two churches. There are always large congregations and there are always many youth attending. On Sunday no one wants to go home. They stay and sing, pray and discuss, and it is always late when we go home.'"

"The pastoral leadership of the church in Yugoslavia is a tremendously serious group and with just a bit of encouragement will continue to strengthen the church there."

Hungary—"Word has come from Hungary that the work of the Methodist Church is going on as before. It is reported that there are 12 preachers and 3,000 members, but very few young people, since they are under such pressure. The spirit of the Christian people is unbroken."

Bulgaria—"Word has come from Bulgaria that in spite of difficult circumstances, worship services are being held."

Most of the pastors must have some kind of job in order to make a living, and many times the wife and children of a pastor work in order that the husband might be free to do his pastoral work."

Poland—"One of the leaders of the Methodist Church in Poland gives us a glimpse into the present status of the church when he says, 'We have been along the road to Calvary. We have not succumbed. We hope that God will see us through.' Rev. Joseph Szczepkowski was elected general superintendent of the Methodist Church in Poland at the last meeting of the annual conference. It is hoped that under his leadership the church will make great strides. At the recent conference, 18 deacons and three elders were ordained."

East Germany—"The Frankfurt Area of Methodism includes both East and West Germany and comprises five annual conferences, with 62,000 full members. Reports tell of tremendous increases in church attendance, mentioning churches that have an average attendance of 1,000 people. Excellent use has been made of youth camps. One such camp is found on the Baltic Sea near Lubeck (West Germany). A youth caravan of 17 young people from the United States met with youth from both Eastern and Western Germany."

"SCIENCE SURPASSES THE MIRACLES OF MYTHOLOGY"

The practice of medicine and pharmacy in ancient days was based chiefly on wishful hope. Little was known about how the body was constructed. Most diseases were considered to be caused by evil spirits.

Modern perfected methods of diagnosis enable physicians to correctly determine the cause of sickness. Fortified by this knowledge and ably assisted by recently perfected drugs they often, almost overnight, produce results that were formerly impossible. That is why now, more than ever, it is wise to consult your physician when sick.

Declaration Of Emergency Major Problem In Operation Of County Civil Defense

WHO SHOULD have the power to declare a state of emergency when natural disaster strikes in Monroe County?

This is a ticklish question which has perturbed Civil Defense authorities and County officials since the 1955 flood.

Yesterday County Commissioners took up discussion of the matter. After talking it over during regular meeting, Commissioners reached agreement on one major point:

That any one member of the three-member county governing board should be empowered to make such a declaration of emergency.

In most cases, Commission members noted, the full board would be available for consultation if an emergency were imminent. But, if all three could not be reached, the one member who is available would have the power to act in an emergency with the CD.

Spotlight The spotlight was thrown on the problem during the high water period a month ago. At that time, no "emergency" was declared for CD.

Commission Chairman John R. Lesoine was consulted by Judge Fred W. Davis, CD director in the county. Lesoine was unable, at the time, to locate Adolph Rake, the other commissioners.

Lesoine noted yesterday, during discussion, that "I hated to take the full responsibility of putting CD on a stand-by alert on my own. In cases like this you feel, automatically, that the ideas of other board members ought to be heard."

Quick, however, commented that: "There are some times when you can't sit around and wait until you get two or three or four or five people together. Sometimes you just have to act and get things done."

The flag was presented at the grave by H. O. Walp, Edward Stienor, and Bruce Price, members of the Monroe County Joint Memorial Committee.

Three Deputies Appointed

THREE deputies have been appointed by County Coroner Daniel G. Warner.

According to information conveyed to County Commissioners yesterday, they are: Dr. Charles H. Rushmore, East Stroudsburg, whom Warner succeeded as coroner; Dr. Joseph Viglione, Stroudsburg and Dr. E. O. Headrick, Mount Pocono.

Probation Officer May Be Hired

PRESIDENT Judge Fred W. Davis yesterday announced that he hopes to hire a full-time male probation officer for Monroe County.

The officer would serve as the agent of the court in cases involving such matters as non-support payments and juveniles. His post would be in addition to that held by Miss Elizabeth G. Martin, the woman probation officer.

Discussing the creation of the full-time post, Judge Davis pointed out to County Commissioners and J. Nelson Westbrook, sitting as the County Salary Board, that such work in local courts has increased greatly during recent years.

In some respects, the judge noted, the complexity of the work may have prevented filling the position without a trained person.

Maximum Efficiency But he observed that he has found from past experience with other courts that the training of a "young, energetic" man in the job results in maximum efficiency.

Probation work in local courts has more than doubled during the past decade. Involved in such cases are those which, in other states, would be handled by a domestic relations court system.

Included here would be court orders for payment of support in the case of separated or divorced couples. In most such cases children are also involved.

Primary aim of the move for a revised probation system is the modernization of reports, interviews and relationships between the probation officer and cases which come under his jurisdiction.

Services For Walter DePue

FUNERAL services for the late Walter J. DePue, 73, were held Monday at 2 p. m. in Keoke Chapel, Paradise Valley, with interment in the church cemetery.

Rev. Carl Keller officiated. Pallbearers were Robert Blackwell, George Bogert, Albert Goll, William Henry, Thomas Nelring and George Vogt.

Stroudsburg Youth Shot In Leg

RONALD C. Kelper, 18-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger A. Kelper, 32 Stofflet St., is convalescing at his home from a bullet wound of the lower right leg sustained in an accident Saturday.

Stroudsburg police said the bullet entered the leg at the knee, passed through the calf and emerged at the ankle.

Treatment Kelper, treated at Monroe County General Hospital, told police the accident happened about 3 p. m. and he was walking with companions to a target range at the rear of Stroudsburg Cemetery.

Kelper said the gun discharged when he slipped and fell on a patch of ice.

County Commissioners Postpone Approval Of CD Director

Reese Wins Praise For Past Work

MONROE COUNTY Commissioners postponed approval of the new Monroe County Civil Defense Council director pending further study yesterday.

The CD Council, formed last Thursday, had unanimously recommended C. Marshall Reese as its director. Their recommendation was passed on the Commissioners by Judge Fred W. Davis, about to retire as CD director.

Meeting yesterday morning, Commissioners agreed that Reese was an excellent choice for the post. Each of the three Commission members had high praise for Reese's devotion to duty as one of CD's earliest workers and coordinators.

They noted, especially, that the Buck Hill Falls man had done an "excellent" job in supervising Civil Defense activities in Barrett, Price and Paradise townships where he is zone director.

But Commission members were in agreement on one central point: That the actual director of the CD Council should be a man who has his home base in or near the county seat where CD activities must, of necessity, be located.

Possibility
W. Adolph Rake, minority commission member, noted that the distance from CD headquarters to Reese's home or place of employment might be a major deterrent to his prompt performance of duty in time of emergency.

Commission Chairman John R. Lesoine, who is also a member of the new CD Council, agreed with Rake. Lesoine pointed out, too, that the basic responsibility for seeing that the CD organization operates properly falls to the County government.

"It's our obligation to see that this thing is run and run right," he said. "I think we should have a conference with Marshall (Reese) and find out what his plans are for handling the CD organization."

Commissioners agreed, also, that it would be helpful to them if they were informed of the person who is to be appointed CD deputy director under Reese before making a final decision.

Reese was chosen by the seven-member CD Council to be its president at last Thursday's organization meeting. The election carried with it a recommendation to County Commissioners that Reese be chosen for the county director's job.

Commissioners, however, do not actually appoint the CD director to his job. They merely approve and pass along the Council's resolution to the office of Gov. George M. Leader. All director appointments do not need approval of the State.

CD Council meets again this Thursday at 3 p.m. at the county CD office in the Court House.

Freezing Rain Felt In South

By The Associated Press

Freezing rain formed an ice slick Monday in the mountain areas of the Carolinas and western Virginia, and sleet, freezing rain-fall edged north in the central Appalachians.

There were wintry manifestations also in the Northern Plains border states where the mercury stood at 9 to 12 above zero near the North Dakota-Canadian line, and 5-below readings were forecast to occur before morning.

Snow Pattern

There was a pattern of snow flurries from Montana across the central Rockies to the plateau as the air turned colder there.

Otherwise, temperatures under 30 degrees were confined to the northern tier states, with readings at the 50-degree mark in parts of Ohio and West Virginia at midday.

The slick glaze in the eastern mountains formed along the northern edge of a large rain area which spread from the lower Mississippi Valley to the South Atlantic States. Paducah, Ky., and Atlanta had more than an inch of rain before noon, and .94 inch was measured at Chattanooga, Tenn.

The plains were in line for rain or drizzle Tuesday, the Weather Bureau said, as cold air slides eastward over the Continental Divide.

Eiler Speaks To Members Of Exchange

JOHN EILER, soccer coach at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, was guest speaker last night at Exchange Club's regular meeting. It was held in the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church.

Eiler questioned the wisdom of large school district combinations—such as jointures and unions—in their concentration on football and the virtual exclusion of soccer from athletic programs.

The coach noted that he has proved in 21 years of active coaching that soccer develops coordination better than any other kind of team sport. Soccer also gives smaller youths a chance to compete in athletics where he would be totally unable to make a football squad, Eiler said.

European Tour

Eiler commented on his tour of duty in Europe, where he taught soccer to members of the armed forces. He was one of seven coaches invited to work with the services in that area.

The coach noted that Gen. Mark Clark had said that through soccer, which is an international game, much better understanding between nations can be built.

Eiler noted that there were 175 soccer teams active in the European service area as of last year.

Victoria Hoehne was named "Girl of the Month" by the club. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Hoehne, Marshalls Creek. Miss Hoehne is active in local school affairs. She is now serving as president of the State Junior Historical Society.

Lawrence Schoenerberger, president, announced that the United States Marine Band will repeat its highly successful 1957 appearance in September of this year. The band's program will be sponsored by Exchange.

Thomas Lincoln Waring announced that the Tulsa University Chorus will also repeat its successful appearance locally on Jan. 27 at East Stroudsburg Junior High School auditorium. It is sponsored by the Varisty E Club.

Sale Of Colonial Diner, Stroudsburg, Announced To New York Businessman

COLONIAL Diner on Main St. in Stroudsburg has been sold to a Brooklyn man.

Cari Kohl, present operator of the diner, announced the sale last night. He identified the new owner as Vincent Vecchio.

According to Kohl, Vecchio and his family own and operate a chain of meat markets in New York City. They have also been in the restaurant business in the past, it is reported.

Vecchio will take over ownership and management of the Colonial on Monday, Feb. 3. There will be no interruption in the operation of the diner.

The Colonial is one of Stroudsburg's best-known restaurants. It has been in operation, under that name, continuously for the past 21 years.

It has been located at the same address, 745 Main St. all that time. Ten years ago, the old diner building was replaced by the gleaming stainless steel-structure diner which now occupies the location.

The new diner was brought in three pre-fabricated sections. Slightly over three years ago, a dining room addition was attached to the larger portion of the restaurant. Together the sections provide a capacity for from 150 to 200 diners at one time.

Kohl said last night that a sales agreement for the transaction was signed yesterday at about 5 p.m. He said that Vecchio has indicated he plans enlargement of the diner's facilities.

Foremost of among these will probably be installation of large ovens and the opening of a home-made bake goods shops in the rear of the diner building.

Along with the restaurant, Vecchio has purchased the 15-room apartment house which adjoins the diner to the rear.

Most of the personnel now working in the diner will remain the same under the new ownership, apparently. Vecchio has conferred with employees of the Colonial and they have been assured there will be no changes in personnel when the management takes over.

Amount of money involved in the transaction was not known last night. Indications were, however, that it would be one of the largest recent real estate transactions on record in the borough.

Kohl said last night he is "looking forward" to concentrating his energies on the completion of his newest business enterprise.

This is the modern, multi-lane bowling center off Route 611 in the new Stroud shopping center area. Kohl said that contractors "have only one day left on the roofing."

He indicated that, if progress moves along step by step as it has been planned, the new bowling center should be ready for its grand opening in May.

Foreign Aid Necessary

Not the least important issue to be debated by Congress during its present session concerns what we have come to know as "foreign aid."

In President Eisenhower's budget message yesterday, he requested $3,940,000,000 in new foreign aid funds for the coming fiscal year. He said the money would reinforce the free world against a Soviet triple-threat of "open armed attack, internal subversion and economic domination."

The President's latest proposal is $86,000,000 more than he asked for military, economic and technical assistance abroad last year and one billion dollars more than Congress voted.

The United States has spent 65 billion dollars in helping our Allies since World War Two. Some of this money has found its way into the hands of nations not so friendly to us, of course, and this fact has been used as an argument by some Americans who oppose the gigantic aid program.

There can be no doubt, however, that most of the dollars have gone to countries we count as our allies against Communist aggression.

More than half of the foreign aid program is actually military assistance and should be considered as part of our defense budget, which we are now about to enlarge to meet Russian advances. The money was spent in other countries rather than here at home, on the theory that we buy more protection by maintaining positions of strength all around the Soviet orbit.

It was spent abroad also on the argument that we would rather help arm the troops of allied nations than to draft much larger numbers of American boys than we are now taking.

Some proponents of both military and civilian aid to the free world forces insist on continuing these huge outlays of American dollars and goods as a means of winning and holding friends abroad.

Judging from the number of times this country has been knifed in the back by countries which have received American aid down through the years, the foreign assistance program has not been a rousing success from the standpoint of making loyal friends.

It was a calculated risk we had to take, however, and the fact remains that much of the program's success or failure depended upon the selling job done by American diplomats—both official and unofficial. If we have failed to convince the foreign nations of our friendly intentions, then we must blame ourselves and not the aid program alone.

We believe that foreign aid must continue on a grand scale if the countries abroad are to reject further Russian threats of retaliation and promises of Soviet help. But our program, to be a success, must be tied closely with stern but friendly diplomacy and backed by sound arguments for a tight alliance against the real threat of Communist domination.

Awaiting The Diagnosis

A very earnest rural legislator was moved to a medical analogy, in one of his infrequent speeches to the Pennsylvania General Assembly a couple of years back.

"If a patient has dandruff, athlete's foot, and a touch of buritis," he said, "do you suggest killing him and starting over again?"

The legislator was talking about Pennsylvania's Constitution adopted in 1874, and chronically under attack for a variety of ills. The proposal he was helping to defeat was legislation to frame a new one. His point, which was shared by many legislators, was that the undebated faults of the Commonwealth's present basic law all can be remedied by amendment.

This is a slow and uncertain procedure, but it has the virtue of pinpointing the changes. Permission for a graduated income tax, for example, would not be wrapped up in a package of other changes, as it might under a complete new draft.

Impending now is further study of what should be done about the 1874 Constitution. Ten distinguished citizens have been named to a Revision Commission, and five more are to be selected. Their task is to advise the 1959 Legislature on whether the basic law should be altered, and if so, to what extent.

It is appropriate that the Commission includes in its members the former Chief Justice of the State Supreme Court, Horace Stern. Better than most men, he should be able to point to the good and the bad in the 1874 law.

It is still more appropriate that the matter is being approached carefully. Pennsylvania has been getting along rather well these last 83 years. It seems likely that there are virtues in the old framework of government, along with the defects.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Launching Pad

George Sokolsky Says...

Too Many Uniforms

In Joe's battle with the cops over his arrest for being off his leash, we have come upon an amazing discovery.

The fellow who issued the wrong summons for Joe was no cop. He could not arrest a murderer or a mugger or such. He was a policeman's uniform; he boasted a policeman's badge; his head was covered by a policeman's cap, but, so help me, he belonged to the Department of Sanitation.

Why the street cleaning cops do not wear green or white or purple uniforms, I have not been told. They wear blue like a regular policeman. I say it is camouflage; it is a trick.

Here in this big city, New York, where 8,000,000 or more people live in peace and democracy, as "Butch" La Guardia used to say, there are all sorts of people who wear police uniforms. First of all are the police of the Police Department who are, as things go in a big city, fairly popular with most folks, unless one double-parks on the exact day and the precise hour when they take in their heads to give out tickets.

Then there are the Sanitation Department police who walk about chasing dogs, annoying superintendents of large buildings, going after chewing gum addicts who drop wrappers on the sidewalk, etc. They are the enemies of the litter-bugs.

It would be smarter if the regular police got the money for additional men, for while a litter-bug is bad, a mugger is worse; and while it makes a city look sloppy if dogs are not curbed, it also makes a city look sloppy if cars are so parked that nothing can be done about sweeping the streets. So let us take first things first, namely, spend more money on cops to put down crime and juvenile delinquency.

Then there are the transit police who might wear a grey uniform, instead of the true blue. The transit police look after subways and such places. There are not enough of them and in the rush and hustle of New York's transportation, which is normally a bughouse operation, they are flattened out by the mob.

The transit police recently got a bad name by putting a microphone in the offices of a labor union in anticipation of a strike. Nobody seems to have liked that idea at all.

"Bugging," as it is called, is a criminal process, usually operated by private detectives to get the goods on an erring husband or wife. Those who err constantly try to avoid using their own telephones, lest they be bugged, which is easy to do. They make their rendezvous over pay-station telephones, changing from one to another. Please, do not ask me how I know.

Then there are the Port of New York Authority police who act in the airports, bus terminals and such places. They also wear the true blue uniform but they are really watchmen in circumscribed areas. They should wear pink.

The citizen becomes confused. There are too many public agencies and too many men in uniform and too many police who are not police. I do not know how it is in other big cities, but here in New York the citizen asks why a great big cop worries a little dog only to discover that the dog-stalker is not a policeman at all; that he is just a Sanitation Department guy.

So from now on, every time I see one of those monstrous garbage wagons violate the law about blocking the streets or dropping part of the garbage cans in the street, or committing any other kind of a nuisance, I shall call a cop.

What can a citizen do? Write to the Mayor? The citizen gets nowhere. The Mayor is probably scared that his wagon-drivers and garbage-wrestlers will go on strike. Go, fight City Hall!

Meanwhile, Joe must stand trial for being off his leash. Does Joe care? Is Joe grateful that he is being represented by adequate counsel who will see to it that his constitutional rights are protected? Not Joe! He is a politician. He did not even bark at the Sanitation Department dog-stalker, but when he saw a real cop in true blue uniform, he gave him what for.

As with dogs, so it is with men, or is it vice versa?

Robert S. Allen Reports...

Drug Makers Accused

Washington, Jan. 13 — The Justice Department is preparing a barrage of price-fixing prosecutions against manufacturers of Salk vaccine and other widely used "wonder drugs."

These significant cases will be filed in federal courts in Washington or New Jersey, or both.

This is the private word from Attorney General William Rogers.

Congressional leaders are being told by him that the Anti-Trust Division is completing an extensive investigation of the drug industry, and the decision has been made to prosecute on the basis of numerous charges.

Among the most sensational of these findings is that certain Salk producers destroyed as much as one-fourth of their serum last year to maintain price levels. This destruction was not due to the deterioration or any other impairment of the anti-polio vaccines. It was prompted wholly by price-fixing motives.

The anti-trust crackdown will make legal history. For the first time since its enactment by Congress in 1956, a new provision of the Anti-Monopoly Act will be used for these prosecutions.

Sponsored by Rep. Emanuel Celler (D.N.Y.), chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, this Section 4A empowers the Federal government to sue for damages claimed from "unlawful restraints and monopolies." Key language of this law reads:

"Whenever the United States is hereafter injured in its business or property by reason of anything forbidden in the anti-trust laws it may sue therefor in the United States district in which the defendant resides or is found or has an agent, without respect to the amount in controversy, and shall recover actual damages by it sustained and the cost of suit."

The military services, the U. S. Public Health Service, National Institutes of Health and other agencies are among the biggest purchasers of Salk vaccine and other drugs.

Assistant Attorney General Victor Hansen, head of the Anti-Trust Division, has indicated the government will claim damages "running into many millions of dollars."

Basis of the Justice Department's investigation of the drug industry was a highly critical report of the latter by a House Government Operations Subcommittee, headed by

Rep. L. H. Fountain (D.N.C.). After numerous hearings and voluminous testimony, the Fountain group charged widespread price-fixing in drug sales to the Government.

Scores of cases were cited, by the House probes, of similar bids being received from as many as 10 different drug firms.

Another Complaint — The list of high-ranking military critics of Administration budget policies is growing.

Latest to voice blunt challenge is Brig. Gen. William Nuckols, commander of the 33rd Air (Defense) Division, with headquarters at Oklahoma City, Okla. The decorated veteran pilot is not planning to resign, but he is speaking just as militantly as retiring Lt. Gen. James Gavin.

Nekols is slated to testify before the House Armed Services Committee in its probe of the hotly-controversial military budget. In the meanwhile the air commander is giving committeemen a forthright preview of his testimony in letters to them.

He is flatly charging increasing inability to protect the extensive area of his command.

"I am grievously concerned," Nuckols writes, "about the gradual diminution of the defense capability of the 33rd Air Division's area of responsibility, which encompasses essentially the States of Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas and Oklahoma, a total of 300,000 square miles with a population of 11,000,000 people."

"Our ability to protect this area and its people has been falling off for three years, and today continues to fall off for lack of funds, and because the Air Force is not able to re-equip the highly-trained officers and technicians required to operate our air defense system at anywhere near peak efficiency."

"For example: In the past two years alone, we have lost to civilian life 900 officers and airmen. . . In addition to losing this extremely valuable trained personnel, the taxpayers have also lost some $15,000,000 in the training cost for these men."

Note: The Strategic Air Command still has as many B-36s in operation as new B-52 jet bombers. Also because of the growing shortage of trained personnel, SAC crews are forced to remain on full duty as much as 70 hours a week. This strain is creating a serious morale problem among the airmen. . . In a recent training exercise covering Northern Canada and the U.S., more than 80 percent of "enemy" bombers were able to penetrate interceptor and other defenses against them. These grim facts have been reported to the Senate Preparedness Investigating Committee, and will be included in its published findings.

Flashes — Okinawa will be the site of the first squadron of intermediate range ballistic missiles stationed in the Pacific. Air Force plan for that has been approved by the National Security Council. Sending IRBMs to Okinawa has the same priority as for Britain and France. Four Thor squadrons are slated for Britain; two for France; and one for Okinawa — all between December 1958 and December 1959. . . The Social Security Administration is opening 25 new district offices throughout the country in the next three months. A number of them will be in agricultural areas to take care of the increasing number of farmers who are covered by social security. . . Two other Republican senators are saying privately they will not seek reelection. They are Senators John Williams, Del., who is up for election this year; and Prescott Bush, Conn., who doesn't come up until 1962. But their aides say they are declaring they do not plan to run again.

Player Piano Responsible For Music

by Jim Riley

You folks of Delaware Water Gap who have heard the sweet strains of piano music floating over the valley must be advised of recent developments.

None of our great concert pianists have moved into the area, but a promising pupil of the ivories is beginning to make himself heard. The last word is really the key to the entire situation.

The gentleman providing the music is Bob Carlton, who lives high on the hill, where his tones carry to the four winds.

The high quality of his playing stems from the fact that he has purchased a "player piano" and all Bob needs is a pair of stout legs.

Here's a little tip. He's sending for more rolls. The worst is yet to come.

The Pennsylvania Story

Furman In Tough Spot

By Mason Denison

Harrisburg — At the moment he undoubtedly is low man on the totem pole.

It does not follow, however, that Greene County's Lieutenant Governor Roy E. Furman in his formal bid for the Democratic gubernatorial nod is destined to remain in this uncomfortable spot.

It is interesting to note perhaps that since his announced candidacy last week there has been little other than passive reaction on already Democratic-held Capitol Hill.

This in itself was not unexpected to those close to the scene — inasmuch as the Furman candidacy formal announcement had long been awaited, expected, counted upon, and already entered in the log book.

Mr. Furman's "race" so far has turned out to be one of the most aggressive unannounced candidacies produced on Capitol Hill in many a year.

Few dispute the fact that his formal entry into the gubernatorial scene bodes ill for Democrats in Pennsylvania.

One of two things apparently is destined to happen before the primary dust blows away:

(1) Either affable and balding Mr. Furman will walk off with the gubernatorial nod with anti-Furman pro-Leader elements finally capitulating, or

(2) A head-knocking fight reminiscent of Republicans in down-to-defeat-1954 is in the offing that could kill off Democratic chances of retaining their grip in November.

There are several good reasons for any limitation to these two basic alternatives.

In the first place the Democratic state organization as such by no means is completely in the hands of what can be loosely termed the "Leader wing" of the party.

The Leader Administration, unintentionally perhaps, has frustrated organization Democrats in county after county during the past three years.

Many an administration policy — especially on the touchy and highly vulnerable patronage front — has run counter to the expressed convictions of county leaders as well as the rank and file.

The back-breaking process of actually organizing long down-in-the-boots Democrats from a minority status to that of majority status has lagged pitifully — notwithstanding the glowing public consumption accounts of some of the more effervescent top level leaders.

In all of this Mr. Furman has gently capitalized over the years, listening patiently to the indignant protests of Democrats in the field, and counselling wherever possible.

As a result, the Green County aspirant is not walking into the arena cold. In fact he has built up a modestly healthy following — which those who are nominally considered the statewide leaders are just beginning to realize.

Mr. Furman's campaign to date has been and will continue to be slanted in the direction not so much of Trend-setter leaders but the smaller fry Democrats throughout the state on the county and local levels.

It can be said that over the years Mr. Furman has courted well.

He is low man on the totem pole at present but in the showdown chances are good he will relinquish this not to be cherished spot.

There are two alternatives for Pennsylvania Democrats.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

I warned you that the clubs would have you working your brains overtime in the programs this month. Looking over the list of programs past and future, you could by diligent application and a split-second timing learn enough to warrant a couple of college credits, just in this month alone.

The Woman's Club had plenty to think about and discuss after their meeting yesterday, but don't think it didn't have its lighter side. Judy Wells, in reminding the club that it was 44 years old today, also remarked in passing that that was the kind of an age you didn't talk much about.

Det Hansen pulled a smooth switch when, referring to the fact that a lot of women had served on a jury before him, expressed pleasure that this time he had "a captivating not a captive audience."

The clubs that weren't making their members think are making them work: sewing last night at Ann Logan and tonight at Wesleyan Guild, house-cleaning at the Water Gap Presbyterian Church.

Even here, the serious effort is lightened by the leaven of small talk. So you needn't go feeling sorry for the clubwomen—they're having their fun, too.

Take a quick look ahead, and you can see where you could hear such authorities as Snyder on China, Kurt Wimer on Woodrow Wilson, a national Girl Scout commissioner on Scouting, Eloise Bryan on Child Discipline, Civil Defense, education in a changing world, Japanese Flower Arrangement, first aid, Shock and its Treatment; you name it and some of our women are going to know about it.

So far there's no program on "How to make 24 hours do the work of 48" but there better be, because a lot of these women are going to be working two-day shifts on blood bank, too!

"CONSTITUTIONAL revision would permit more efficient state financing," Van D. Yetter, speaking on state government.

"COUNTY officials administrators for citizens," Detlef A. Hansen, speaking on county affairs.

"BOROUGH services offer bargain to residents," Jesse R. Flory, whose topic was borough affairs.

"THE PUBLIC will pay for the amount of education it is convinced is necessary," Earl Groner, speaking on school affairs.

Civic Leaders Tell Woman's Club Of Local Services And Needs

In following their year's theme, "Take Time for All Things," the Woman's Club of the Stroudsburgs yesterday took time to study local affairs from a state, county, borough and school angle with a panel of four community leaders outlining the respective fields. They were introduced by Mrs. Edward C. Hess.

Van D. Yetter, former State Assemblyman, was assigned the state level.

"It is impossible to separate politics and government," he acknowledged, "but good politics makes for good government," and cited Governor Leader for drawing to his cabinet professional people. He ticked off the cabinet members who have devoted their lives to teaching or administration of their particular field.

"Pennsylvania has a long way to go but with professional advice and the support of the people, we can do it," he said.

On the negative side he stressed the out-dated state constitution, which by limiting the amount of state debt to one million dollars, forces the state to farm-out its responsibilities to authorities, which must borrow at higher rates of interest and under less control.

He also praised the courage of Mayor Dilworth, potential candidate for governor, in putting bluntly the state's need for more money.

Thru-Way Hearing Today — In speaking of the proposed Stroudsburg-East Stroudsburg Thru-way, Yetter outlined the change in attitude by the majority of merchants since the project was first suggested ten years ago, and called attention to the public hearing on the Thru-way to be held today at the Court House, here.

Monroe County District Attorney Detlef A. Hansen confined his talk to an outline of county officials and their duty. The Associate judges, he pointed out, are by law not permitted to be lawyers.

Refreshments were served.

The three county commissioners are county managers charged with paying all salaries except that of the judges, the maintenance of county buildings and all county property. The county treasurer is in charge of money from taxes, liquid fuels, and feed.

The office of the recorder of deeds and register of wills is a public office, and as such its records may be examined by anyone at anytime, he said, in contrast to the office of probate and clerk of court, whose records are kept for members of the court itself.

Outside of courthouse offices, the affairs of the county are en-use collection, streets, lighting, playground including the pool and its life guards, shade trees, Civil Defense, and even the town clock.

"All this for the cost of one dollar per month, per person," he said.

However he also pointed out that in keeping expenses at a minimum certain desirable things had been sacrificed: sanitation sewers, improved water service, adequate parking, new streets, neighborhood playgrounds, dumping area, new ground-floor municipal offices, perhaps a civic center, and attractive approaches to the towns.

An Oscar For Emma Smith

Mrs. Emma Smith, first and second grade teacher in the schools of Eldred Township, has been selected to receive the "Oscar" presented to an outstanding teacher in Monroe County by the Woman's Club of the Stroudsburgs. She will also be entered in the state recognition contest.

Announcement of her selection, made by a county-wide committee, was made at yesterday's Woman's Club meeting, and the actual presentation of the award will be made next month. Mrs. Smith, still unaware of her selection, is in Florida where she and her husband were injured in an automobile accident on a Christmas vacation trip.

forced by the sheriff, and the other county officers are the coroner and assessor. In the townships the supervisors fill the same duties on the township level as the commissioners on the county level, he said.

A Lot of Service for $1 — "One of the biggest bargains today is the services which the resident receives from the borough," Jesse R. Flory, chief burgess of East Stroudsburg, listing some of those services: salaries for administration of borough business, legal and engineering services, buildings, insurance and maintenance, protection of persons and property, including the school guards, dog catcher, police cars, traffic signals, firehouse expenses, health and sanitation, garbage and ref-

Money for support of these services comes mostly from taxes, with license fees, fines, fees from signs or parking meters, and federal aid in some cases as for civil defense.

For more services, he pointed out, more money is needed which also comes from tax moneys in hidden taxes. He warned that there was a loss in administration of money collected by the state and returned to the boroughs which meant less service for the same amount of money, as well as loss of local sovereignty.

Unity for Better Services — "An alternative to higher taxes has been suggested," he said, referring to a talk by Dr. Harold F. Alderfer at the Pocono Chamber of Commerce

Unpreparedness Dangers Brought Home To Women At West End Club Meeting

Saylorsburg — The hard facts and statistics of atomic warfare presented by Joseph Kovarik and Dr. Floyd Shafer at the meeting of the Progressive Woman's Club of Saylorsburg on Wednesday night at the Chestnut Hill School added up to no rosy picture.

Kovarik, a member of the science faculty at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, put it up to the individual in his opening question: "Would you know what to do in case of an atomic attack or would you panic?"

The only way to avoid panic is have people adequately trained in knowing what action to take, he said. With proper clothing and a face mask, the human body can tolerate atomic radiation for short periods. Staying indoors also offers protection from atomic fall-out, but again he stressed the need for trained people who knew when it would be safe to venture out.

He brought the danger home by suggesting an atomic attack on the city of Bethlehem and the short distance from the West End of the county, and also discussed phases of chemical warfare.

Dr. Floyd Shafer, who for several years practiced medicine in the West End, stressed the medical aspects of atomic warfare, citing figures on abnormal births and diseases which might result from being exposed to atomic fall-out.

"In the normal course of events, people think of taking their injured to the hospital, but we have to face the fact that there may be no hospitals or doctors available," he warned and urged the club members to take first aid courses and to encourage their husbands and members of the fire department to become interested in Civil Defense.

The Melodettes provided musical entertainment and sang several numbers. Mrs. Grant Knowles sang "Bless This House" as a solo.

Mrs. Knowles presided at the business meeting which was opened with prayer by Mrs. Stanley Rader. Mrs. Karlene Mondell, chairman of mental health, thanked the members for their gifts for the Allentown State Hospital.

One of the major projects for the club just now is the March of Dimes on January 28. At the meeting lieutenants were named. They will select their works and distribute supplies before the March of Dimes is held.

Following the program, refreshments were served from a table decorated with red carnations and snow-balls and snow-covered branches arranged by Mrs. Lloyd Mackes and her committee.

Prayer Groups Today

The weekly prayer groups organized by the women of the Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church will hold its second session this morning from 10:15 to 11 a. m. at three separate homes: Mrs. Bernard L. Peters, 742 Sarah St.; Mrs. E. H. Wyckoff, 514 Thomas St.; and Mrs. Carrie Palmer, 308 Park Ave.

'Historical Society On Saturday

The annual business meeting of the Monroe County Historical Society will be held on Saturday at 2:30 at the Stroud Community House with election of new officers for three-year terms on the agenda.

At the meeting, the report of the curator of gifts received during the year will be given and a summary of the year's activities will be given by the president.

Plans will also be completed for the annual dinner meeting to be held Thursday, January 30 at the Penn-Stroud Hotel. Dr. Kurt Wimer, a member of the faculty of East Stroudsburg State Teachers College will be the guest speaker on the topic "League of Nations."

The Wyckoff Shopper

"As friendly as" A.B. Wyckoff STROUDSBURG, PA.

"ROUND AND ABOUT WYCKOFF'S: Sterling Strauser, browsing in our gift department with wife, Dorothy, thanks me for the column of Friday in which I mentioned his paintings and those of Nancy Hebard, among others. Since Nancy's husband, Morgan, and Sterling are associated with the International Boiler Works, the column found its way to the company bulletin board. I'm very flattered. Both Strausers were high in their praise of this year's Wyckoff Art Show — and you will be, too, once you've visited our second floor. It's rousing fine. . . Gloria Burnett, who was secretary to Bill Wyckoff a number of years ago, and is now the homemaker mother of handsome young Stevie Burnett, drops by to present me with one more madonna for my collection—a beautiful reproduction of the first stained glass window made in America. And did I mention that Dr. Edna Rosenkrans of Sussex, N.J. stopped in with another? Thanks to friends, there have been sixty added to the collection this holiday season.

Comes a telephone call inviting me to meet Miss Pennsylvania during her visit at Scranton. I understand Jeanne Poortstra, our Miss Pocono Mountains, and "Ike" Miller, directress of the local "Miss America Pageant" plan to be there. . . Among Friday visitors to our store were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hartman of Scranton, a pleasant couple who, through their frequent visits to Wyckoff's, have become very fine friends of Shorty Widmer. Mr. Hartman is among our art show exhibitors, and I was delighted to see his work — it has much the same quality as Peter Heiden's, I think. And I consider that a compliment to be treasured. . . Did I mention that J. Harvard Macpherson has pleased me beyond description by making me the custodian of one of his loveliest paintings while he winters in Tucson, Arizona? I shall have to part with it, for it's perfect on my den wall, looking as though it were painted just for the particular space it occupies, since the sky and wall are identical in color.

It doesn't seem possible that Dottie Sturdevant is old enough to have celebrated a 25th wedding anniversary—but she has pictures of George, herself, and their family party to prove it. If you miss Dottie in our cardcase, don't think she's left us—she's simply been transferred to our accounts payable office. . . Edna Brockman, of our Wyckoff Travel Bureau, tells me she is delighted with the response on our Springtime Tour of Europe, from March 15th to 31st. It's quite a tour for 750.00. Edna will, of course, be making the trip, as will Margaret Hunter, head of personnel. Wish I could say the Wyckoff Shopper would be with them—but 'tain't so. . . Tom Delaney of the New Jersey Herald, with wife and daughter, spent part of Saturday visiting the Stroudsburgs and Wyckoff's. He tells me he was once a reporter on the Newark News — so we had quite a gabfest. Many of our finest customers are Wyckoff-Sears store there to you know. . . Why not are from the Newton area, home of the Herald. There's come in today? We're open until 5:30—or shop by telephone. Either way, we're happy to serve you.

OFF THE RECORD

By Bob Clark
Sports Editor

SOME DAYS you can't pick up an item of interest no matter how hard you try and miss. This is one of those moments and as such, a browse through pamphlets and record books help to at least get rid of the dust which has accumulated on the "informers."

We'll stick to only one magazine today and bring out some interesting facts that may even make a dull day duller.

National League umpire Henry (Shag) Crawford got his nickname as a boy "shagging fly balls" on the Philadelphia Sandlots.

Incidentally, Crawford was aboard the U. S. Destroyer Walker when the ship was hit by a Japanese Kamikaze plane during the invasion of Luzon in 1944.

Ironically true, The St. Louis Cardinals led the National League in batting in 1957 with a team average of .274. However, they still pay off on runs and as we know Milwaukee won the pennant — also the world championship — and the Braves scored denied home plate the most times — 772.

Lightning doesn't strike twice according to this Don Hoak, of the Chicago Cubs, tied an all-time major league record by striking out six times in one game against the New York Giants, May 2, 1956. One year later — to the day — Hoak, playing with Cincinnati against the same Giants, had a field day at the plate with four-for-five, including a homer, and drove in five runs.

The New York Giants — now of 'Frisco — hammered out 157 home runs in '57 and kept its record intact of having hit a 100 or more four-py wallop 26 straight years.

Wally Moon of the St. Louis Cards compiled the longest hitting streak in the NL past year, stroking safely in 24 games from May 5 to May 31, inclusive.

One of the bright spots in the Milwaukee Braves final surge was the brilliant relief work of Don McMahon. In 47 innings, McMahon allowed only 33 hits and eight earned runs and registered 46 strikeouts.

Pittsburgh Pirates' General Manager Joe L. Brown, son of the famed comic Joe E. was an end on the UCLA football team in 1938.

Johnny Antonelli, left-handed pitching ace of the San Francisco Giants, will be a 10-year veteran of the National League April 12. It's hard to believe but Johnny will only be reaching his 28th birthday at that time.

Mathematical Problem — The difference between a 300 hitter and a 250 hitter is only one hit per week between players who go to bat about 500 times.

Figure it out — if one player has 150 hits for 500 at-bats, he hits .300. If another has only 125 for 500, he averages .250. The season is 24 weeks long.

Plenty of mileage in those legs—National League umpire Dusty Boggess played more than 1500 professional baseball games, has umpired more than 3,000 ball games, refereed over 2,800 basketball games and 500 football contests. Prior to turning pro, Dusty was a five-sports star at Waco, Tex., High, starring in baseball, football, basketball, track and tennis.

Harry Anderson, the rookie who made it with the Philadelphia Phils last season, tied an all-time Phillie record for the most home runs by a first-year man. The 26-year-old Anderson knocked 17 out of the park to equal Den Ennis' output in his freshman year in 1946.

Monroe County League Highlights Today's Basketball

Stroudsburg, Eastburg On Rival Courts

THREE games in the Monroe County Scholastic Basketball League pinpointed the action in the immediate vicinity today as both Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg high school machines hit the road.

The "big one" in the MSL finds Barrett hosting Chestnuthill at Canadensis. Barrett, currently holding down second place, is only one game in front of the resurgent Hillers. A Chestnuthill victory will send coach Bill Frear's five into a knot for the number two berth.

In other league games unbeaten Pocono High goes after its sixth straight triumph at Kresgeville against win less Poik, while Tobyhanna Township takes on Coolbaugh at Tobyhanna in a battle for fourth place.

At Emmaus Stroudsburg High's twice-beaten Lehigh Valley League entry faces another tarter today when they square off against Emmaus on the Green Hornets' hardwoods.

The Mountaineers, 6-5 on the season and 0-2 in the LV, will be meeting a five that is unbeaten in two league duels. Emmaus, in a poll of LV coaches prior to the start of the season, was rated as the team to dethrone Palmerton, perennial league champions.

The Mountaineer-Hornet duel is expected to turn into a points battle between Stroudsburg's Ted Williams, the 24-per-game shotmaker, and Kerry Levandowski, Emmaus' 20 per gunner.

East Stroudsburg, 1-4 in Lehigh-Northern League competition, meets in and out Parkland in the Trojans' gymnasium.

Coach Doug Schoonover's young and in experienced Cavalier five, losers of four close contests, hopes to use Parkland as a stepping stone to more victories.

The Trojans are 2-3 in the L-N, but have turned in several eye-opening performances, especially on their home court.

WEST END used good first and third quarters to down Beescker's quintet, 78-73, in a Pocono Mountains League basketball game at the Monroe County YMCA last night.

Harry Possinger's brilliant 27-point performance turned the tide in favor of the West End crew. The former Chestnuthill High star collected seven field goals and 13 foul shots.

Not Enough Ray Steele and Jim Frailey each scored 14 markers in a losing cause.

Tobyhanna rolled over the Barrett Legion, on the latter's home court, 91-42, in another Pocono Mountains League tussle last night.

The winning contingent was in front at halftime, 45-18. Lineups follow:

Wilt Sets Pace LAWRENCE, Kan., Jan. 13 (AP)—Wilt Chamberlain scored 32 points as he returned to action tonight and led Kansas to a 67-46 victory over Colorado in a Big Eight Conference basketball game.

Logart defeated Ortega in Cleveland in December and Martinez meets Turner in Philadelphia Wednesday night in a 12-round match. Akins, who knocked out Tony DeMarco in a rematch Jan. 21.

The NBA decided in Philadelphia over the weekend to endorse a fight between Logart and the Martinez-Turner winner as the new champion. It also accepted the resignation from NBA membership of the Massachusetts Commission, which had insisted on recognition of the original Akins-DeMarco as a title match.

Helfand issued a statement through his press secretary in which he pointed out that the NBA representative on the world commission, Anthony Petronella of Rhode Island, had joined in the action setting up the six-man tournament.

Shaughnessey Hopeful Of Receiving Aid

NEW YORK, Jan. 13 (AP)—International League President Frank (Shag) Shaughnessey said today he still was hopeful that Congress would come to the aid of the minors in their family feud with the big league clubs bent on telecasting Sunday games.

The veteran baseball officials, together with Commissioner Ford Frick, departed for Washington to confer with Rep. Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.) and Rep. Kenneth B. Keating (R-N.Y.) about the CBS-TV Game of the Week plan. He said he would ask the congressmen's help in putting through a bill which would permit the majors to run their television affairs without danger of suits by the Department of Justice.

"I know that if the majors were permitted to run their own affairs regarding television," Shaughnessey said, "they would set up legislation that would prevent any club from telecasting its games into minor league territory."

National Basis Shaughnessey, alarmed by the plan of New York, Cleveland, Chicago White Sox, Baltimore, Cincinnati and Philadelphia to telecast Sunday games on a national basis, is on record as appealing to Congress for relief from such invasion into minor league territory.

"Frick is with the minors 100 per cent in this thing," he said. "If it weren't for his fear that baseball would be charged with collusion and violation of antitrust laws, he would stop those clubs tomorrow."

"The commissioner knows that if those clubs go through with their plan, it might kill off the minors altogether. I made a thorough research recently into last year's minor league attendance figures and I discovered that the Sunday game represented 24 per cent of our total attendance."

"It must be obvious to all that without Sunday attendance — and who would want to attend a minor league game if they could watch a big league game on television that day — minor league baseball would die."

Bowling Clinic

By BILLY SIXTY
In Bowling, Expert
Varied Styles

IN THE preceding articles, I described how Don Carter, three-time individual world match ruler, starts from an erect stance and drops immediately into a deep crouch with his first step. Also that he carries the ball forward, sort of lifts it outward a bit, rather than push it away with both arms, which 99 per cent of the bowlers do. And he finishes with a push, lifting the arm very easily as his fingers apply hook spin.

Carter is big, 200 pounds; has the necessary strength in his hands to handle the ball as he does.

Exactly opposite is his teammate Dick Weber — and for good reason. Weber weighs about 135 pounds. He must rely on a full push-away of the arms to create his perfectly grooved swinging arc. Carter breaks his arm in the backswing to produce a piston-like motion. Weber does the opposite — keeps the arm straight all the way, as sketch shows. He avoids elbow break entirely.

Feeling Weight How does he do it? By feeling the weight of the ball. By letting the ball swing of its own weight. This is definitely the method prescribed for men of Weber's build, and for all women. Swing is the controlling factor — swing produced by push-away. And push-away gives you the swinging arc and regulates ball speed without physical effort.

The ball creates its own momentum — a very important point to remember.

Irish Lashes Podoloff For Failure To Rotate Officials

NEW YORK, Jan. 13 (AP)—In another development in the hassle over basketball officials, Ned Irish today charges National Basketball Assn. President Maurice Podoloff with "failure to carry out the decisions" of the league's board of governors.

Irish, executive vice president of the Madison Square Garden Corp., which owns the New York Knickerbockers, told the weekly luncheon of the New York basketball writers.

"The governors have repeatedly told Podoloff that we need a better rotation of officials and he has neglected to do anything about it. The league is trying to save costs by keeping some officials in the East and some in the West all the time. That doesn't make for a sound operation."

In a swift rebuttal to Irish's charges, Podoloff declared: "We are well aware that we need a more equitable distribution of officials. But it always works better in theory. When you have to contend with sickness and officials who won't travel, it's pretty tough to satisfy everybody."

Murphy New Grid Coach MEMPHIS, Jan. 13 (AP)—Billy J. (Spook) Murphy, 36, backfield coach at the University of Minnesota, today was named head football coach at Memphis State University.

C. C. Humphreys, MUS athletic director, said Murphy had accepted by telephone after the school's athletic committee met today and agreed to offer him the post. The contract is for three years. No terms were announced.

The Mississippi State backfield star will succeed Ralph Hatley who resigned recently to become chairman of MUS's health and physical education department. Murphy was backfield coach under Hatley from 1947 to 1952.

The new coach takes over a team which has been placed on probation for the next two years for violation of the athletic code of the National Collegiate Athletic Assn.

Three Matches Set THREE matches are set for the Bushkill League at Harmon's Recreation today at 9:15 p.m. Schedule follows:

Alleys one and two—Kinsley Market and Al Beescker's Diner.
Alleys three and four—Major Real Estate and Herb's Men's Shop.
Alleys five and six—Detrick's Dairy and Armitage's Bar.
Alleys seven and eight—Monroe Plastic and Koehler's Diner.

Dodgers Still Searching For Home

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 13 (AP)—Walter O'Malley's melodramatic search for a home for his wife's from Brooklyn produced another cliff-hanging episode today. The Dodgers almost made it to Wrigley Field, only to halt on the threshold.

The long hunt for a home-away-from-home for the Dodgers while their permanent park is being built seemed to have ended in the former minor league home of the Los Angeles Angels. Then the Dodgers' rotund president gave the O'Malley-go-round another spin.

After announcing he felt "constrained to select Wrigley Field as the site for the 1958 major league games" of the Dodgers, O'Malley told reporters clamoring for more information that he is still in contract with Los Angeles officials on the possibility of using the 100,000-seat Coliseum.

O'Malley's near-decision to settle in Wrigley Field came after the collapse of negotiations for the Rose Bowl, another 100,000-seat structure in nearby Pasadena.

Cost Problem That venture floundered on the cost of transforming the famed football stadium into a baseball park—a sum estimated at $750,000.

After reading the statement, O'Malley was asked if that meant he had reached a final decision to play in Wrigley Field, a 22,000-seat park in a congested section of Los Angeles.

"Well, no," responded Walter, obviously reluctant to give up the grandiose dream of playing before a crowd of 100,000. "I'm not burning any bridges behind me."

The Coliseum popped back into the picture when Mayor Norris Poulson, learning that the Rose Bowl deal had fallen through, shot off a letter to the president of the Coliseum Commission urging that O'Malley be given another hearing.

The mayor's letter suggested the commission offer the Dodgers a contract comparable to the proposition San Francisco gave the Giants.

"This would mean revenues to the Coliseum Commission in excess of $200,000," Poulson said, "together with parking income, which would run into many thousands of dollars."

Poulson and O'Malley huddled later in the day, presumably to discuss the presentation they will make if invited to appear before the commission at its meeting tomorrow.

West Virginia Seeks Record MORGANTOWN, W.Va., Jan. 13 (AP)—West Virginia's top-ranked Mountaineers will be trying to equal a record that has stood for 11 years when they take on Pitt, a traditional rival, in Pittsburgh Wednesday night.

A victory for WVU would be its 13th straight of the season, and tie a record set by the 1946-47 team. A triumph also would have to overcome some stout opposition from a Pitt team that holds a 48-40 edge in the long series.

"I know they'll be out for us, but we're ready," said Coach Fred Schaus of West Virginia. Schaus said his squad may use a rotating defense set to combat Pitt's Don Hennon. Hennon has averaged 27.4 points a game, trailing only Wilt Chamberlain of Kansas State and Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati.

The Associated Press

NOTRE Dame scored the "Upset of the Year" for 1957 when it broke Oklahoma's record string of football victories at 47 in a 7-0 game on Nov. 16.

The sports writers and sportscasters participating in the annual year-end poll by The Associated Press gave Notre Dame's triumph at Oklahoma a lopsided margin over other surprising results of last year.

Of 197 voting, 156 named the Notre Dame-Oklahoma result as Upset No. 1. Milwaukee's World Series triumph over the New York Yankees drew 14 firsts and Purdue's upset of Michigan State 20-13 received 11 firsts.

Carroll Basilio's decision over Sugar Ray Robinson to win the world middleweight championship picked up five firsts and Robinson's knockout over Gene Fullmer in their May rematch in Chicago attracted three firsts.

North Carolina's success in the NCAA basketball finals against Kansas and Lew Burdette's three World Series victories each accounted for three first place votes.

There was one each for Illinois' victories over Michigan and Minnesota in football and Dick Mayer's triumph over Cary Middlecott in the National Open golf championship.

Note Dame, which already had been named "comeback team" of 1957 long will be remembered for the Oklahoma game. Beaten 40-0 by the same university a year ago when the Irish won only two games, Coach Terry Brennan's team went to Norman, Okla., as 18-point underdogs and came home with a one-touchdown decision.

The Irish moved 80 yards in the closing minutes of a scoreless game to punch over a touchdown on a three-yard end run by Dick Lynch.

Monty Sikes, whose field goal beat Army in early season, added the placement that made it 7-0. It was the first time Oklahoma had been shut out in 123 games.

PK Earns Verdict In Basketball

TOM BESECKER and Dick Pennington combined to lead Patterson-Kelley to a 52-34 victory over Ronson in an Industrial League basketball tussle at the Monroe County YMCA last night.

Patterson-Kelley rallied with 17 points during the final stanza to swing the verdict in its favor.

Top Scorers Beescker wound up the game with 22 counters and Pennington had 13.

The winning club enjoyed a 25-19 edge at the halfway mark.

Prospector Makes Claim Of Uranium

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Jan. 13 (AP)—A "weekend prospector" says he has found a deposit of commercial uranium ore in northeastern Pennsylvania, but he won't say where because a claim is pending.

The prospector, Anthony Gill, of Niagara Falls, a clerk at the Bell Aircraft plant, said yesterday that he already has purchased options on 700 acres and hopes to obtain another 5,000 acres.

"Hilly and Wild"
All he will say about the area is that it's hilly and wild.

Gill, who has been prospecting Pennsylvania on weekends with a Geiger counter for two years, said a government report on samples he submitted assayed at .13 per cent uranium. The government will buy if the ore assays at .10 per cent or more.

There are "thousands of tons" of ore in the area, Gill added.

Senate Majority Leader Admits Helping To Obtain Liquor Firm License For Montana

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 13 (AP)—Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney revealed today he had helped obtain a state license for a Buffalo wholesale liquor firm headed by John C. Montana, one of the 60 men snared in a police raid on the Alapachin gangland convention.

Mahoney, an aspirant for the Republican nomination for governor, said his Buffalo law office handled as routine business the firm's application to the State Liquor Authority in 1949 and its renewal application in 1956.

He said he gave the matter no personal attention.

No Question
"There was no question of political influence," Mahoney told The Associated Press.

Montana, like Mahoney, is a Republican and has been active in Buffalo politics. He is a former city councilman and once ran for Congress.

The Liquor Authority, which was GOP-controlled in 1949, first rejected the application, then granted it.

Mahoney said the application was turned down because one of the firm's stockholders, Anthony Naples, had failed to list a 1923 arrest. When this omission was corrected, the license was issued, he said.

Mahoney acknowledged he was acquainted with Montana but said he would not describe him as a friend. He said he never discussed the SLA matter with Montana and never had any other business dealings with him, except for two or three minor corporate matters the law office has handled for Frontier Liquor.

Montana, 64, heads a Buffalo taxicab company as well as the liquor distributing firm, the Frontier Liquor Corp.

He testified before the Watchdog Committee last month that he happened to be driving near Alapachin on a business trip Nov. 14 when the brakes of his three-month-old automobile failed. He said he therefore stopped at the home of Joseph Barbara, host of the gangland meeting, and had tea with Mrs. Barbara.

He said he was a friend of the Barbareas but knew nothing about the meeting, although he ran into the woods when state police closed in.

Testimony
The committee turned over his testimony to the Albany County district attorney. Montana's statements about the time of his arrival at Barbara's home appeared to conflict with that of the state police sergeant who led the raid.

Mahoney said he had no question about the SLA application because Montana was a principal stockholder in another liquor firm and a brewery, both of which had been licensed.

He recalled that Frontier's roster of stockholders included several prominent names in Buffalo.

Among them, he said, were Thomas C. Holling, former Democratic mayor of Buffalo and one-time state parole commissioner; Wade Stevenson, president of the city's chamber of commerce; and Joseph Davis, chairman of the Niagara Frontier Parks Commission.

Mahoney said the corporation itself was activated with the guidance of Franklin Brown, former president of the State Bar Assn.

Stassen Aims Plans For Future Years

HARRISBURG, Jan. 13 (AP)—James F. Malone, president of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers Assn., says Harold E. Stassen told him Stassen would like to become governor of Pennsylvania as a springboard to a possible candidacy for the presidency in 1950.

Malone made the statement in a copyrighted interview with the Harrisburg Sunday Patriot-News.

Stassen, President Eisenhower's disarming aide, could not be reached in Washington for comment.

A former governor of Minnesota and former president of the University of Pennsylvania, Stassen has said he was considering entering the race for the Republican nomination for governor.

Reaction
Reaction of Republican leaders at the time ranged from lack of enthusiasm to opposition.

Malone said in the Patriot-News interview there were at least two other objections to Stassen as a GOP candidate for governor this year.

The other two, he said, were that Stassen "is not a Pennsylvanian" and that "he tried to stir up trouble in the Republican party last year." The last objection was apparently a reference to Stassen's opposition to vice president Nixon at the 1956 GOP convention.

Malone, whose organization is a power in GOP state-making, gave this answer to one question in the interview:

"Now there is one objection that I would have to Stassen myself—When he talked to me in the spring he outlined to me a plan that if shortly before he went to London, he could be nominated and elected governor of Pennsylvania with the large Pennsylvania delegation, he would have a lot to say about who the candidate for president would be in the Republican ticket should be."

Malone, in the major part of the interview, advocated a "new face" for the gubernatorial candidate but said the association would back the Republican candidate no matter who he is. He said he had no specific preference.

THE trend in home decoration today emphasizes the use of furnishings which not only have a useful value as well as decorative value but one that also requires little attention and care.

You see the trend in modern homebuilding ideas, furniture, and flooring.

The A. B. Wyckoff floor covering department is now featuring a product which meets all these qualifications... famous Sandran Vinyl floor covering which withstood the famous "torture test" across Main St. this past summer.

Keeps Waxed Look
This amazing floor covering never needs scrubbing, always keeps its "just waxed" look without constant care, defies hot grease, acids, lye and other substances so hard on the average floor. It's that so-easy-to-keep-clean feature that makes it so popular.

Sandran Vinyl is available in six and nine foot widths with a choice of 36 colorful patterns. See them at A. B. Wyckoff's in Stroudsburg.
